

VIRGINIA EDITORS WHAT THEY THINK.

Norfolk County Politics.

The Norfolk County Times says: It takes a lot of unimagined gall to ask the State Central Committee to force a majority of the Democrats of Norfolk county into a primary that is to be run by the same crowd who would not even allow Democrats to vote last fall. It would take a lot of forcing to get some of the best Democrats of the county into such a primary, too.

Inventor Bibb.

Editor Bibb, of the Louisa News, is no longer Editor Bibb, but inventor Bibb. He has sold the News to Mr. Robert A. Crawford, who has changed the name to Enterprise. In his salutation, Mr. Crawford says: "In assuming the proprietorship and management of the Enterprise, it gives me great pleasure to know that I have the heartiest good wishes of my friend Mr. Bibb, who, from now on, will devote his entire time and well-known talents to perfecting an invention, a creation of his own busy brain, which I trust will bring him in an abundant harvest of both fame and fortune, in which I am sure all good people will heartily join me."

Talks Sense.

The Salem Times-Register was delighted with the Governor's speech in Salem last night.

Governor Montague could not do the people of the State a greater service than to attend the commencement exercises of all the schools and colleges in Virginia and repeat to them the splendid advice contained in his magnificent address here yesterday. His Excellency completely startled and annihilated fops, society butlers and fool fraternity notions by his many references to the nobility of the working people, whom he placed first in the world. Some feeble minded, on that subject, among his audience, were, perhaps, horrified to hear him say, speaking of his own daughters, that if he had to choose between music and cooking, he would take cooking every time, for thereby they could make happier homes. This, however, is only one of the many practical and very plain points he touched upon. His whole address was a gem of the plainest and most common sense, and one that need to be taught more and more in this aping and impractical age.

Some More Sense.

The Appomattox Times preaches a sermon to the county that will apply in other counties. It says: No white man can realize the importance of having a majority of the county on the side of the primary—August 1st. There is by no means any danger, in fact, but for the insertion of the word Democrat in the plan, no reference would have been made to one party or the other. We hope the white people will vote in the primary, because under the new constitution, if you stay out of the primary, you practically disfranchise yourself, so far as your county officers are concerned. Let there be a full vote on the primary.

Tazewell Still Dry.

The Clinch Valley News says: If the Republican administration's claim to a general control of the affairs of the country be genuine, the Rainmaker, Federal should be hailed up and asked to explain why there has been such a partial distribution of water recently, and also be informed that we are needing a little rain in Tazewell. If he cannot explain and adjust, then put a more competent man in his place.

Good Advice.

The Eastern Shore Herald finds it necessary to pour a little oil on troubled political waters. It says: The Herald condemns the plan of injecting violent personal matter into the political campaign as is being done by some. The public has a right to call for expressions from the various candidates on the points at issue without being subjected to the disagreeable incident to that kind of oratory. Joyous discussions are very conducive to the enlightenment of the hearers when conducted in the right spirit, but it is an imposition on good nature to expect people to listen to abusive language without becoming very tired of it, especially when it goes so far as to appear more like persecution rather than public discussion. A nice tempered discussion is beneficial; volumes of personal invective prove nothing and establish nothing.

Sticking to It.

The Clarksville Enterprise says: The people of the county do not propose to drop the matter of the Mr. Broad may withdraw his bill and his interest in behalf of public roads at the suggestion of the Enterprise. It is a live issue and it is the aim and purpose of the Enterprise to stand by the public highways in their efforts to secure better public highways.

Over the Rocky Way.

The Warrenton True Index figures it out this way: With cyclones in the South, floods in the West, forest fires in the East, negro inches in the North, depression in Wall Street, thieving in the government departments and labor upheavals everywhere, President Roosevelt's home-coming from the greatest residential junket could not have been one of unalloyed bliss.

As Others See It.

The Brunswick Gazette has its ideas about the situation in Richmond. It says: We dare say that those members of the City Council of Richmond who were instrumental in suppressing the investigation proposed about a year ago of the reports then current of blood on the part of members of the city government have now discovered that in so doing they only made bad matters worse. It should have been as plain to them as it was to every one else that any effort at suppression only added fuel to the flame by giving additional and wider spread currency to the greater credence to the damaging reports. Nor was this all, it operated as a cruel injustice to those who had been guilty of no wrong-doing by involving them, who were not personally known, in the general suspicion. The suppressionists in the Council should have known that sooner or later the day of reckoning would come and that their efforts to stifle investigation would only intensify the determination of the good people of Richmond to probe the matter to the bottom and lay bare the whole dirty business without fear, favor or affection.

Some Sweet Day.

The Harrisonburg Free Press says: Some day the people will come to realize that "practical politics" in any department of the government is a gentle way of referring to political despotism. The official who schools himself to the working people, whom he placed first in the world. Some feeble minded, on that subject, among his audience, were, perhaps, horrified to hear him say, speaking of his own daughters, that if he had to choose between music and cooking, he would take cooking every time, for thereby they could make happier homes. This, however, is only one of the many practical and very plain points he touched upon. His whole address was a gem of the plainest and most common sense, and one that need to be taught more and more in this aping and impractical age.

What Lebanon Wants.

The Lebanon News speaks right out. It says: In an open field and a fair fight is what we want this fall. We understand that the horses are being groomed on both sides of the fence, and that the standard bearers will be. Remember, boys, you need not now ask whether a man has the money to purchase the office, but ask can he fill the position? Is he fit? Men will vote this fall uninfluenced by money. What will happen?

A Gloomy View.

The Henry County Bulletin says: It is suggestive of the degradation to which American politics has descended, and the extent to which the people have resigned themselves to political despotism, when it is observed that the Republican party has been able to win its victories under all sorts and conditions, with any and all sorts of candidates, while the Democratic party has gone to defeat with a single exception, whatever its platform and whoever its candidate. The trusts and the G. A. R. are too strong a combination for the people to resist. That is about the present situation.

Wood and Princess Kenton,

Other Items.

Of all Virginia breeders not one has ever labored more unselfishly, and that on a large scale, than the personal interest in the State than the noted Oak Hill Farm, near Aldie, Loudoun county.

Mr. Fairfax imported the famous Matchless stallion, Matchless of Lonsboro, from England, in 1885, and later sold him to Dr. W. Seward Webb, of Vermont, for $15,000. Apart from his extensive breeding establishment Mr. Fairfax has played a prominent part in public life for years past, serving as a member of the State Senate, member of the Constitutional Convention and chairman of its Finance Committee, and now member of the State Corporation Commission.

One of the most important offices in the State government, breeding horses began at Oak Hill at an early date. The first selection in England of Matchless by Mr. Fairfax and his importation of the wonderfully potent stallion was the master stroke that brought fame and fortune to the farm as the home of fine harness horses. In the beginning neighboring farmers were allowed to couple their mares to Matchless and other stallions at Oak Hill on the most liberal terms, and no charge was made.

Matchless Dane, chestnut horse, 7 by Matchless of Lonsboro, dam Lady Pitt, imported from England, was bred at Oak Hill. He has fine size, good looks and impressive action. The farm mares were allowed to couple with him this season, while others of real class were received from Northern owners. A number of the mares were mated with Matchless and have produced some great high acting harness horses.
